

COVENANT FOR NATIONS LEAGUE IS COMPLETED

Exemption of Monroe Doctrine is Only Vital Change in the Document.

JAPAN'S PLEA IS IGNORED

No Mention of Racial Equality Appears in the Text; Will be Submitted to Plenary Conference, Date for Which is Not Yet Officially Determined.

By Associated Press.

PARIS, April 12.—With the single exception of the amendment specifically exempting the Monroe Doctrine from being affected by the covenant, no vital change was made by the League of Nations commission in that document in its meeting on Thursday and Friday nights. Last night's meeting marked the conclusion of the consideration of the covenant.

Last night's discussion lasted four hours, President Wilson attending the session and remaining until it closed after midnight. No date has been set for a plenary session of the peace conference to consider the covenant. The covenant as the commission left it did not include any section granting Japan's request for the recognition of racial equality and neither was a section introduced covering the request of France for an international military general staff. Both Japan and France announced that they reserved the right to bring up the amendments they desired before a plenary session of the conference. As it now stands the covenant contains 26 sections.

The French delegation of the league of nations commission voted for the adoption of the text of the covenant when the commission endorsed it last night, but made reservations as to two points, first the organization and effective control of the manufacture of war materials and second, the insurance of permanent military control.

The commission decided to submit the agreement to a plenary session of the peace conference shortly, but set no definite date.

The text of the League of Nations covenant will be made public in a few days, says the official announcement. Except for the technical task of bringing the French and English texts into accord the covenant, the announcement states, is ready for a plenary session of the peace conference.

PARIS, Friday, April 11.—While the text of the Monroe doctrine amendment adopted by the League of Nations commission at its session last night is withheld, its main features are substantially along the following lines:

Article 10.—Nothing in the covenant shall be construed as invalidating any agreement such as the Monroe doctrine for the maintenance of peace.

The exact language of the amendment is closely guarded and efforts to obtain a copy of the text met with the statement that although there is peculiar American interest in the amendment there was no reason for its departure from the definite policy of the commission not to disclose textual changes in the covenant as the work progresses.

PARIS, Friday, April 11.—The supreme council has announced an agreement between the associated governments providing that enemy armaments, both that acquired before and since the armistice, would be divided among those governments according to their ability to bring the ships into speedy use and in the case of passenger ships according to their relative needs. This agreement will not prejudice the ultimate disposition of the ships under the terms of the treaty of peace.

The vessels will fly the flag of the Allied maritime council as well as the national flag of the country undertaking their management.

CAMPAIGN TO AROUSE GREATER INTEREST IN BOY SCOUT MOVEMENT

Parades and Demonstrations, a Summer Camp and Play to be Given; Plans Developing for a Summer Camp.

At a meeting of the Connellsville Local Council of the Boy Scouts, held at the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A. rooms last evening it was decided to inaugurate a campaign the purpose of which is to better inform the public of the object and purposes of this organization; to demonstrate some of the things the members are taught to do and at the same time arouse a greater interest in this agency for the training of boys for better citizenship. Another object of this campaign is to prepare the people of Connellsville for an appeal that will later be made for assistance in providing means to establish a permanent summer camp for the Scouts.

In furtherance of these plans it was decided to hold parades of the eight troops now organized in the city; to give public exhibitions of the various activities which are a part of the training of the Scouts. A supper, to be prepared and served wholly by the boys, will be given to the members of the council and their friends as one means of showing the diverse accomplishments of the Scouts and as an occasion for better acquainting the men of the city with the Scout movement.

Report was made by Scout Commissioner Witt of the results of an inspection of camp sites in the Indian Creek Valley, one a short distance below White Bridge being deemed the best. A committee consisting of John L. Gans, O. R. Carpenter, H. T. Kanner, J. W. McClaren and Scout Commissioner Witt was appointed to ascertain the price and terms at which the camp site can be purchased or leased for a long term of years and also to secure estimates on the cost of building a permanent mess hall and kitchen. A sketch of this building has been made showing a main building 28 by 100 feet with a kitchen 14x28 feet attached. Another kitchen consisting of E. C. Moore, J. M. Young and A. B. Hood was appointed to secure estimates on an outfit of tents, mess equipment and other camp paraphernalia.

As one means of raising money to finance the summer camp it was suggested that an amateur performance be staged by the boys. Secretary Underwood of the Baltimore & Ohio Y. M. C. A., Scoutmaster Witt and Rev. I. G. Nace were named a committee to arrange the necessary details for this entertainment.

ROBBERS BUSY IN THE CITY DURING NIGHT

Approximately $10 Cash and Establishments Secured in Five Visits to Homes and a Barber Shop.

Five robberies were committed in the city last night, four residences in East Fairview avenue and a barber shop in West Peach street being burglarized. Money was secured by both gangs of robbers, and in the residences establishments were taken.

In Fairview avenue the thieves entered the home of J. D. Stillwagon, Isaac Cropp, Mrs. M. C. Gilmore and T. A. Burleigh. A window was broken out in the kitchen of the Stillwagon home in order to gain an entrance. Only 10 cents was secured there. At the home of Isaac Cropp entrance was gained through the back window. A stepladder, used to gain access to the window, was left behind. The owner of the ladder is not known. Some valuables were taken at the Cropp home. Not succeeding at getting into the Gilmore home the intruders broke open a refrigerator on the back porch and took a piece of bacon. They left behind them, however, a crock of butter taken from the Cropp home.

At the Burleigh home entrance was gained through a back window. Mr. Burleigh said he believed this window had been left unlocked last night. Here the thieves secured between $10 and $15. The money was taken from two children's banks and also from Mrs. Burleigh's pocketbook. Some old coins were also taken.

In West Peach street the visitors took control of a punchboard valued at $23. James Catano, the proprietor of the shop, said he had the board ready to ship back to the manufacturer following the order of the mayor to discontinue the use of them in the city. Entrance was gained by breaking the glass out of a back window.

The committee is planning to have the coming Memorial Day exercises the best ever held.

Fourteen members attended the meeting yesterday and enjoyed a talk given by J. C. Whiteley on his trip to Birmingham, Ala., where he visited his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. William Hood.

MEDALS CAST FROM GERMAN CANNON FOR LOAN SOLICITORS

Captured Helmets Also Will Be Distributed, on Merit Basis.

DETAILS ARE SHAPING UP

System of Prospect Cards Which Proved Useful in the Fourth Loan Campaign Will Be Used in Victory Drive, It is Officially Announced.

Solicitors in the Victory Liberty Loan campaign will have several additional incentives to give the work their best efforts other than the broad patriotic impulse of doing their "bit" to "pay for victory." Each solicitor accredited to district organizations will be decorated with a Victory medal cast from German cannon captured by the Marines at Chateau-Thierry. The medal not only designates an official campaign solicitor but in itself is an attractive souvenir which may be preserved with other war trophies.

Great interest is expected to be aroused in the competition among solicitors for the possession of German helmets assigned to the Fayette County Liberty Loan committee for distribution. Awarding of the helmets will be placed strictly upon a basis of merit and results attained and loan officials in charge of that phase of the campaign are now working out a plan to place the competition upon an equal basis in all districts. The rules of the competition are being given much study in order that solicitors in the townships or sparsely settled districts may have an equal opportunity with those in the more thickly populated districts.

Possession of a German helmet awarded by the Fayette County Liberty Loan committee as a reward for distinguished work in the Victory campaign will be an honor for which every solicitor will strive to attain and with that reward ever before them workers will become more and more devoted to their task as their score increases during the progress of the campaign. The awarding of the German helmets to workers of the home forces will be prized by the home forces as highly as service heroes regard their decorations for valiant fighting. Both represent rewards for distinguished service and solicitors are asked by the Liberty Loan committee to look forward to the possession of a helmet upon that basis.

The model system of prospect cards will be used in the Victory campaign as in the Fourth. That complete system of residents of Fayette county worked to such advantage in the Fourth campaign that its adoption was one of the first steps taken in shaping plans for the Victory Loan. Records of the prospect cards have been corrected to date and is now a more complete directory of residents of Fayette county than in the Fourth campaign. Prospect cards are now being issued to district chairmen who will in turn distribute them to the 1,000 odd workers being enrolled for the final Loan campaign.

DEBS ORDERED TO REPORT AT PRISON TO BEGIN SENTENCE

Socialist Leader Decides to Make no Further Effort to Delay Execution of Federal Mandate.

By Associated Press.

CLEVELAND, O., April 12.—The United States Supreme court mandate ordering that Eugene V. Debs, Socialist leader, be taken to Moundsville, W. Va., federal prison to begin a 10-year sentence for violation of the espionage act by making utterances against the government in a speech at Canton, O., was received by District Attorney Wertz this morning. Wertz immediately got into communication with Debs by telephone at Terre Haute, Ind., notifying him to deliver himself here, which Debs promised to do, saying that he was ready to go to prison and would make no further efforts to delay carrying out his sentence. Debs was found guilty by a federal court jury here on September 12 last and has been out on bail since.

LIQUOR DEALERS IN WESTMORELAND STILL IN THE FIGHT

Move Made to Have Third Judge Appointed That Licenses Refused Last Week May be Granted.

GREENSBURG, April 12.—An application was made Friday at chambers of A. D. McConnell, president judge of the 10th judicial district, to call in an additional judge to assist in determining whether or not tavern licenses shall be granted in Westmoreland county. The petition was presented on behalf of the various license applicants in the county and the proceeding is based on the act of March 24, 1887. The act provides that whenever in the opinion of the president judge of any judicial district, the proper despatch of business shall require it, the president judge is authorized to procure the assistance of another judge in the trial of civil or criminal cases and the transaction of other business before the several courts.

The petition avers in substance that the several license applications were heard on Monday, March 24; that court was adjourned until the following Saturday. No action was taken at the time and the matter was carried over until Saturday, April 5. On that day, because of the fact that the judges composing the court were not in harmony on the granting of licenses, the applications were not finally disposed of and the hotel men are anxious that the question be settled. Judge McConnell took the papers and will probably rule on the matter later.

Friday's action was the result of the meeting of the hotel men in Greensburg earlier in the week. The action was a star chamber one and it was only when the petition was presented that the plans of the liquor dealers leaked out.

COMPANY I, 339TH INFANTRY, UNIT IN MUTINIOUS SPIRIT

Official Report to War Department Indicates Command is Under the Influence of Bolsheviki.

By Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, April 12.—Company I of the 339th Infantry was identified today by General March as the unit which recently refused to return to the front line trenches in the Archangel sector when ordered to do so by its officers.

A supplementary report to the department on the incident said it was worthy of note that the questions put by the men of Company I to their officers were "identical with the questions which Bolsheviki propagandists asked that they had put to them."

The department has not yet received copies of the Bolsheviki leaflet containing these questions and General March said he was extremely anxious to secure one. "In my long service," General March said, "I do not recall another instance where American soldiers did not want to go into a fight. They always have said 'Lead us to it.'"

A report from Murmansk dated March 28 said the Onda bridge on the railroad south of Murmansk had been rebuilt restoring communication with the southern post of the Allies.

GYM EXHIBITION ADDS TO LAURELS OF HIGH SCHOOL

Combined Boys' and Girls' Program Last Night Most Pleasing Affair.

STUDENTS ENTHUSIASTIC

Are Proud of Their Gymnasium and Their Instructors, Too, and Enter With Vim Into Work; Many Difficult Feats Performed; Win Applause

The first combined high school gymnasium exhibit, participated in by both boys and girls students, proved highly successful when staged last night at the gymnasium. Several hundreds of persons were guests of the students and faculty at the exhibition and thoroughly enjoyed it. The affair was prepared under the direction of Miss Iva Waterbury and Fred A. Bode, physical instructors in the school, to whom much credit must be given for the advancement of the gym classes.

Both boys and girls proved themselves very proficient in drills and exercises, together with a few feature stunts. One big factor in making the exhibit a success was the spirit of cooperation shown by those participating in it. High school students are proud of their gymnasium and evidence much enthusiasm in their physical culture.

Every event could be called a feature but the pyramids by the boys, first to sixth years, took the house. Ten different formations were gone through without a slip. This style of work has not been attempted until two weeks ago when drills began for the exhibit. Some of the formations were very clever as well as difficult but each one went off smoothly.

The girls featured in folk dances, giving the shepherds and Spanish dances. Boys and girls of the junior and senior classes participated in the Trolleyenne folk dance. James Loughrey and Lem Stranbaugh gave a clever exhibition on the mats.

Both boys and girls went through class programs and apparatus work. The smaller boys appeared in a dumb-bell drill. A larger class gave an exhibition on the parallel bars which brought much applause. Charles Henderson, who is handicapped by having an artificial limb, went through the drills with the remainder of his class, and handled himself so well that the audience did not know of it until it was announced.

A big class of boys and girls gave a combination drill, using wands, dumb-bells and free arm movements. One of the most interesting events was the relay race by the boys of the first and second years. Two different races were staged. One in which the youngsters took "sliders" along the floor under piled up stools brought much laughter.

The boys of the third, fourth, fifth and sixth years completed the program by going "over the top," leaping over piled up mats on the parallel bars. Some difficult jumps were made with ease and grace.

One of the features of the program participated in by the girls was the march. Girls wearing costumes of orange and black counter marched and maneuvered around the floor in a combination of drills which showed perfect training. Another girl feature was the couple dance.

Those who participated in the Trolleyenne folk dance were Anna Marloa Soisson, Louise Rankin, Savilla Struble, Clara Springer, Katharine Slaughter, Amalia Schuler, Dorothy McClaren, Howard Robinson, Edwin Keagy, Charles Sleeth, George Struble, Joseph McConnell, William Lyon and Robert Surane. The audience called for an encore of this number.

In the Spanish dance were Edna McCormick, Leona McManis, Savilla Struble, Dorothy McClaren, Amalia Schuler, Carolyn Tennant, Lucella Penrod, Harriet Wishard, Alice Kramer, Margaret Yobe, Gladys Niland, Garnet Gwynn, Frances Buttermore, Katharine Struble, Anna Marion Soisson and Iva Rankin.

The following girls participated in the shepherdess dance: Frances Zimmerman, Ruth Humbert, Charlotte Durrie, Mildred Elkos, Katharine Durrie, Elsie Nickelson, Genevieve Lyon, Sadie Rosenfelt, Clotilde Love, Alice Kramer, Garnet Gwynn, Frances Buttermore, Savilla Struble, Frances Myers, Lillian Franks, Leona McManis, Kathleen Gallagher, Emma Jean Bufano, Ruthella Bixler, Susan Lyon, Gladys Niland, Clara Springer, Catherine Slaughter and Martha Port.

Discharged From Hospital. Charles Myers, a Baltimore & Ohio brakeman, who suffered the loss of an arm while coupling cars on the Somerset & Cambria branch, has been discharged from the Memorial hospital at Johnstown and has returned to his home at Rockwood.

License Transferred. The license for the National Hotel at Mount Pleasant has been transferred to Mrs. William H. Templeton, whose husband died a few days ago. Charles A. Sherrick will manage the place.

Discharged From Hospital. Joseph Maleck, who was injured in the mines at Adelaide, was discharged from the Cottage State hospital today.

SENIOR NOTES.

After Mr. McLeod of the University of Pittsburgh had gotten through with the Seniors last week he evidently wanted to see what kind of a High School we have here. Mr. Smith, who was showing him around after introducing him to Miss Armstrong, was heard to say, "I suppose you know that I'm just giving you a birdseye of our building, Mr. McLeod."

Last Wednesday, Mr. Allison was giving out books on the Civil War. He asked who would take them and Rhea Grodzin said she would and asked "Is it a romance?" Mr. Allison replied, "No." "Well I won't take it then," she said.

The Senior class wishes to thank the faculty and all those who aided in putting forth the fine entertainment given in the gym last Saturday night. We know that it took some trouble to arrange for the affair. It is for this reason that we extend such hearty thanks for what they did for us.

The other day in English, Joseph McConnell, in discussing one of Chaucer's works said "The Squire's Tale" instead of "The Squire's Tale." We are proud of our self-restraint. Not one person mentioned "nuts."

In economics an outside reading was being discussed. Mr. Allison asked, "Who was the imbecile in the book, Audrice?" At which Audrice Sparks replied, "I don't know her. It only gave her first name and that was Esther." We don't see how Audrice should know her anyway when she only read about her.

WITH THE FRESHMEN.

This happens every day when Hazel walks heavily across the floor. Miss Lyon:—"Hazel, please don't make so much noise when you walk." Hazel McPhail:—"I just can't help it. My soles are so heavy."

Here on this page so large and white, He, the Tiger, writes his name. Now if you will only give your brain, And hand in more items, We'll surely make him glad again, And surely will not starve him.

Mr. Haviland must have been reading something very exciting in Study Hall, Wednesday morning. He was sitting there very quietly when all of a sudden he grasped his coat and started to laugh. After this won't you share the joke with us, Mr. Haviland?

Miss Fretts:—"Now I want everyone who is using a pencil to stop the scribbling and use your brain instead of your hands."

Heien Pico:—"You can't write with your head, can you?"

Section A seemed to enjoy making hats out of current events, papers, "Utilite paper" seems to be their motto.

Miss Brown:—"Wesley, why are you so late?" Wesley:—"I shot myself." Miss Brown:—"Shot yourself! What with?" Wesley:—"A beanshooter."

FIRST AND SECOND YEARS.

It's always well to be happy, When your auto is in trim, But the men worth while, Is Haviland with a smile. When he has to ride home on the rim.

Harold Elcher (suddenly):—"Albert! If you had 45 and I gave you $5 more, how much would you have?" Albert Bufano:—"(Absently) "Hytories."

Conundrums for the Teachers: Largest string of ovals—Davidson. First family on earth—Adams. Color of the sun—Goldens.

EDITORIAL.

The reception given the Seniors by the faculty last Saturday evening was a decided success. The gymnasium was prettily decorated in orange and black, the school colors, and, thanks to the interest and hard work the teachers put on the occasion, there was not a dull moment during the whole evening. During the evening the faculty staged a mimic school room, the teachers imitating the pupils, and we must say they did admirably. Miss Margaret Baker as Jean Enos persisted in forever powdering her nose, chewing gum and running after excuses much to the disgust of Mr. E. W. Haviland, impersonating John Moore who "figgered" that Miss Wöhe, impersonating Irene Buttmore had it "all over her." Mr. A. O. Stone as Howard Robinson and Mr. Allison as George Struble organized a "drum corps" during the class and as usual had to be gently but firmly ejected.

When the class was about half over and Miss Grace Adams as Estella Wilson had just administered another layer of powder to her nose, Superintendent Stanley P. Ashe, impersonating Edwin Keagy, "rambled" in "lay down" in his seat and after propping his feet on the desk proceeded to forget all about school until Miss Armstrong who was teaching the class asked him to recite his five lines of last week's Caesar. Miss Iva Waterbury as Leona MacPhail, Miss Ann Donnelly as Louise Rankin and Miss Hanna as Mary Towzy who was ever on the hunt for her excuse also added to the amusement.

A pie eating contest was held by the basketball team and the prize was won by the Captain, John Moore. Superintendent Ashe received a "whistle" as a prize in a bean contest between the faculty and students, while Leona MacPhail demonstrated her ability to eat a "uneeed biscuit" and whistle sooner after eating it than any other on the faculty.

Norman McLeod of the University of Pittsburgh paid C. H. S. a visit last Thursday morning in the interest of university extension. Mr. McLeod spoke to the Seniors about the university and gave them quite a lot of valuable information on college entrance requirements.

At a meeting of the basketball team held last April 4, Robert Bufano was elected captain for next year. With "Buf" as captain of the basketball team and "Jimmie" McConnell as captain of the football team C. H. S. should not need to worry about its laurels next year.

After several weeks of tryouts and anxious moments the name and cast of characters for the annual class play have been announced. The name of the play is "What's in a Name" and is by C. Leona Dairymple, the author of last year's play. The cast will include Joseph McConnell, James Laughrey, Mary Towzy, Margaret Hetzel, Charles Sheetz, George Struble, Anna Marion Soisson, Edwin Keagy and Howard Robinson.

As to the class day exercises, the name has not been decided upon yet but it is expected to be announced shortly.

Very hard—Stone.
One who shoes horses—Smith.
Haviland:—"Stand up, Angle"
Angle:—"On feet?"
Haviland:—"Try Angle." (Triangle)

AMONG THE JUNIORS.

The Juniors will have to get busy if they want to keep their good record in The Tiger. If you hand in one or even more notes and they do not pass, don't get discouraged and quit. We should receive from all the Juniors in High School at least 20 notes every week. Instead we receive between nine and twelve, out of which there are sometimes five censored. Wake up! Take a little more interest and hand in notes which the censor can pass and fill our column for the rest of the term.

Juniors, did you know that there is a lawyer in our class? Mary K. Fleming is showing great ability in this line. One of her first attempts was the drawing up of the Juniors will which shows that she is a born lawyer.

Mary K. Fleming, "Toots" Niland and Beryl Dobbie, the candy beggars, were badly fooled the other day when Nanna Hood fed them chocolate covered candy with garlic inside.

Miss Baker's literary society classes had their regular meeting on Monday afternoon instead of Friday on account of practice in the auditorium.

We judge there are a number of Juniors who suffer from insomnia caused by prowling about like owls till after 1 a. m.

Why is it that Mr. Bode never sits with the Juniors and Seniors any more?

Our idea of extravagance: Making use of study periods. Studying dead languages. (Latin.) Getting as many different colored neckties as Mr. Allison. Singing as much as Sarah does in the chapel. Getting as many E's as Dorothy McClaren.

Staying out of trouble as long as does Genevieve.

SOPHOMORE SAYINGS.

There are things that make us happy, There are things that make us blue, But the things that makes us shaky, Is when we have a Caesar Exam to do.

Miss Long:—"Helen did any of the problems in today's lesson bother you?" Helen:—"I didn't try any of them."

Miss Lyon:—"Your answer reminds me of Quebec. Lucella, grinning uneasily:—"Why?" Miss Lyon:—"Because it was founded on such a big bluff."

Miss Delin:—"Lucella, why don't you know your lesson?" Lucella:—"It isn't my fault."

Miss Delin:—"Whose is it?" Lucella:—"Caesar's."

A meeting of the Sophomore Literary society held last Wednesday afternoon. There was a good turn out of pupils of that class.

Miss Myers:—"Appropriate means fit. Can you give me an example?" Mable Vance:—"No, I can't, but our cat can, she has 'em."

What Sophomores Stand for: S is for Sadie, a foolish clown, O is for Olive, from out of town, P is for Peared on the school team, H is for Helen our Sophomore queen, O is for Oppuman, Margaret's last name.

M is for Mildred well worthy of fame, O is for O'Donnell, Camille's family name.

R is for Rohm a stylish young dame, D is for Emma Jess a good sport all around, S is for Samuel, a gruff old bound.

LESS MEAT IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Take a Glass of Salt to Flush Kidneys if Bladder Bothers You.

Eating meat regularly eventually produces kidney trouble in some form or other, says a well-known authority, because the uric acid in meat excites the kidneys, they become overworked; get sluggish; clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region; rheumatic twinges, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast, for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salt is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for generations to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to normal activity; also to neutralize the acids in the urine so it no longer irritates, thus ending bladder disorders.

Jad Salts cannot injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus avoiding serious kidney disease.

MAKE YOUR SHOES WEAR LONGER

Ten months ago, W. H. Kelley, a lumber salesman of Omaha, had a pair of shoes re-soled with Neolin Soles. Mr. Kelley does much walking and has worn these shoes constantly. He says "they are still good for another ten months of wear."

Good shoe stores carry Neolin-soled shoes in many styles for men, women and children. They cost you no more than shoes that give less wear. Neolin Soles are also available everywhere for re-sooling. Remember—these soles are created by science to be what soles should be. They are comfortable and waterproof—as well as long-wearing. "OH JOHNNY."—In which Lewis Bennett, the star of famous "Johnny Get Your Gun," is seen in the leading role, is being presented today. The opening scenes of the picture are laid in a western mining camp, where the hero has located a rich property, known as the Lost Hope Mine. An eastern investor is trying to negotiate for it, but the hero will not deal with him. The mine is held in partnership with the heroine, daughter of an old prospector, who died, leaving the hero to look after the girl. In the course of the narrative the heroine goes to a city where designing relatives have invited her, having learned of her wealth. The hero follows after a while, arriving in time to find the girl about to be cheated out of her stock. He takes the measures necessary to protect her rights and his own and in the end marries her. The production has some excellent comedy touches and some beautiful settings and at the same time it has certain moments of surprise and ingenuity as well as humor. Mr. Bennett is supported by Frank Goldsmith, Virginia Lee, Anita Cortez, Louise Brownell and others. A selected comedy is also being shown.

Agency is Awarded to Wells-Mills Motor Car Company; New Substitute for Gasoline Also.

A new motor car, the Liberty, has made its appearance in Connelville. The Wells-Mills Motor Car company is the agent for the "car that is different." The company has also become distributor for "B-zol," the new substitute for gasoline manufactured by the Koppers Products company of Pittsburgh, which, it is claimed, eliminates shifting of gears and makes possible climbing hills on high.

At this time but one car, a roadster ordered by A. C. Stickle, has been received. Others will be here any day. The company plans to handle all styles, the touring car, the roadster, the sedan and the coupe.

The Liberty car is equipped with the Liberty motor. It is acknowledged by those who have ridden in it that there is something different about the machine. The car is the result of the application of the most modern principles in the manufacture of motor-driven vehicles. There is a snap and flexibility in its action, yet a sure and steady smoothness of the powerful motor which is at once uncommon and delightful. Over hills, through mud, through sand the car drives easily, without strain and with power to spare. In every feature of performance it is declared to be the acme of perfection.

B-zol has not been available for the trade until now. It is a coal product discovered in the research laboratories of the Koppers company at the Mellon Institute in Pittsburgh. It will mix with gasoline without detriment to either fuel. The cost is the same as gasoline, but it is claimed it will produce 20 per cent more mileage.

Immediate Delivery of New Models

The temptation is to be superlative about the beauty and performance of the new Lexington Touring Car.

Unfortunately, if words could describe its fashionable design, color schemes, and accommodation they fail utterly as a substitute for a demonstration of its efficient operation.

In order to fully appreciate the success Lexington has achieved in perfecting the dependable six cylinder type of car, one must take the wheel and observe—

The smooth, silent starting; the quick get-away; the rhythmic flow and ebb of power, highly responsive to your wish; the emergency brake that operates with one finger; the complete confidence and restfulness one enjoys whether taking a hill on high or inching through traffic.

Lexington owners benefit by a substantial saving in fuel because of the exclusive Moore Multiple Exhaust System which produces more horse power with less fuel.

Let us demonstrate this new Touring

Car.

GREEN FANCY BY GEORGE BARR MCUTCHEON

Author of "GRAUSTARK," "THE HOLLOW OF HER HAND," "THE PRINCE OF GRAUSTARK," ETC.

He had thrilled at the sound of her voice. It was the low, deliberate voice of the woman of the woods, and before he caught the almost imperceptible accent. The red gleam from the blazing logs fell upon her shining hair; it glistened like gold, the wore a simple evening gown of white, softened over the shoulders and neck with a fall of rare valencienne lace. There was no jewelry—not even a ring on her slender, tapering fingers. Mrs. Collier, the hostess, was an elderly, heavily-featured woman, decidedly over-dressed. Mrs. Van Dyke, her daughter, was a woman of thirty, all, dark and handsome in a bold, luscious sort of way. The lackadaisical gentleman with the mustache turned out to be her husband.

"Come and Sit Beside Me, Mr. Barnes,"
She Called Out Gayly.

The pleasure he is missing tonight. De Soto's cocktails came in. Miss Cameron did not take one. O'Dowd proposed a toast.

"To the rescuers who went gunning for the other rescuers. But for them we should be short at least one member of this agreeable company."

It was rather startling. Barnes' glass stopped half way to his lips. An instant later he drained it. He accepted the toast as a compliment from the whimsical Irishman, and not as a tribute to the prowess of those mysterious marksmen.

The table in the spacious dining room was one of those long narrow Italian boards, unmistakably antique and equally rare. Sixteen or eighteen people could have been seated without crowding, and when the seven took their places wide intervals separated them. No effort had been made by the hostess to bring her guests close together, as might have been done by using one end or the other of the table. The serving plates were of silver. Especially beautiful were the long-stemmed water goblets and the graceful champagne glasses. They were blue and white and of a design and quality no longer obtainable except at great cost. The esthetic Barnes was not slow to appreciate the rarity of the glassware and the chaste beauty of the serving plates.

The man Nicholas was evidently the butler, despite his Seventh avenue manner. He was assisted in serving by two stalwart and amazingly clumsy footmen, of similar ilk and nationality. On seeing these additional men servants Barnes began figuratively to count on his fingers the retainers he had so far encountered on the place. Already he had seen six, all of them powerful, rugged fellows. It struck him as extraordinary, and in a way significant, that there should be so many men at Green Fanny.

Much to his disappointment he was not placed near Miss Cameron at table. Indeed she was seated as far away from him as possible. There was a place set between him and De Soto, for symmetry's sake, Barnes concluded. In this he was mistaken; they had barely seated themselves when Mrs. Collier remarked:

"Mr. Curtis' secretary usually joins us here for coffee. He has his dinner with my brother, and then, poor man, comes in for a brief period of relaxation. When my brother is in one of his bad spells poor Mr. Loeb doesn't have much time to himself."

Loeb, the private secretary, came in for coffee. He was a tall, spare man of thirty, pallidly handsome, with dark, studious eyes and features of an unmistakably Hebraic cast, as his name might have foretold. His teeth were marvellously white and his slow smile attractive. More than once during the hour that Loeb spent with them Barnes formed and dismissed a stubborn over-recurring opinion that the man was not a Jew. Certainly he was not an American Jew. His voice, his manner of speech, his every action stamped him as one born and bred in a land far from Broadway and its counterpart. If a Jew he was of the east as it is measured from Rome—the Jew of the carnal Orient.

And as the evening wore on there came to Barnes the singular fancy that this man was the master and not the servant of the house! He could not put the ridiculous idea out of his mind.

He was to depart at ten. The hour drew near and he had no opportunity for detached conversation with Miss Cameron. He had listened to her bright retorts to O'Dowd's sallies, and marveled at the ease and composure with which she met the witty Irishman on even terms.

Not until the very close of the evening, and when he had resigned himself to hopelessness, did the opportunity come for him to speak with her alone. She caught his eye, and, to his amazement, made a slight movement of her head, unobserved by the others but curiously imperative to him. There was no mistaking the meaning of the direct, intense look that she gave him. She was appealing to him as a friend—as one on whom she could depend!

The spirit of chivalry took possession of him. His blood leaped to the call. She needed him and he would not fail her. And it was with difficulty that he contrived to hide the exultation that might have ruined everything.

While he was trying to invent a pretext for drawing her apart from the others she calmly ordered Van Dyke to relinquish his place on the couch beside her to Barnes.

"Come and sit beside me, Mr. Barnes," she called out gayly. "I will not bite you or scratch you or harm you in any way. Ask Mr. O'Dowd, and he will tell you that I am quite docile. I don't bite, do I, Mr. O'Dowd?"

"You do," said O'Dowd promptly.

"You do more than that. You devour. Instead I have to look in a mirror to convince myself that you haven't swallowed me whole. That's another way of telling you, Barnes, that she'll absorb you entirely."

For a few minutes she chided him for his unseasonable aversion. He was beginning to think that he had been mistaken in her motive, and that after all she was merely satisfying her vanity. Suddenly, and as she smiled into his eyes, she said, lowering her voice slightly:

"Do not appear surprised at anything I may say to you. Smile as if we were uttering the silliest nonsense. So much depends upon it, Mr. Barnes."

CHAPTER X.

The Prisoner of Green Fanny, and the Lament of Peter the Chauffeur.

He envied Mr. Rushcroft. The barn-stormer would have risen to the occasion without so much as the blinking of an eye. He did his best, however, and, despite his eagerness, managed to come off fairly well. Anyone out of earnest would have thought that he was uttering some trifling innuendo. Instead of these words:

"You may trust me. I have suspected that something was wrong here."

"It is impossible to explain now," she said. "These people are not my friends. I have no one to turn to in my predicament."

"Yes, you have," he broke in, and laughed rather holistically for him. He felt that they were being watched in turn by every person in the room.

"Tonight—not an hour ago—I began to feel that I could call upon you for help. I began to relax. Something whispered to me that I was no longer utterly alone. Oh, you will never know what it is to have your heart lighten as mine—but I must control myself. We are not to waste words."

"You have only to command me, Miss Cameron. No note than a dozen words are necessary. Tell me how I can be of service to you."

"I shall try to communicate with you in some way—tomorrow. I beg of you. I implore you, do not desert me. If I can only be sure that you will."

"You may depend on me, no matter what happens," said he, and looking into her eyes, was bound forever.

"I have been thinking," she said. "Yesterday I made the discovery that I—that I am actually a prisoner here, Mr. Barnes. I—smile! Say something silly."

Together they laughed over the meaningless remark he made in response to her command.

"I am constantly watched. If I venture outside the house I am almost immediately joined by one of these men. You saw what happened yesterday. I am distracted."

"I will ask the authorities to step in and—"

"No! You are to do nothing of the kind. The authorities would never find me if they came here to search." (It was hard for him to smile at that.) "It must be some other way. If I could steal out of the house—but that is impossible," she broke off with a catch in her voice.

"Suppose that I were to steal into the house," he said, a reckless light in his eyes.

"Well, I could try, couldn't I?" There was nothing funny in the remark, but they both leaped back and laughed heartily. "Leave it to me. Tell me where—"

"The place is guarded day and night. The stealthiest burglar in the world could not come within a stone's throw of the house."

"If it's as bad as all that, we cannot afford to make any slips. You think you are in no immediate peril?"

"I am in no peril at all unless I bring it upon myself," she said significantly.

"Then a delay of a day or so will not matter," he said, frowning. "Leave it to me. I will find a way."

"Be careful!" De Soto came lounging up behind them.

"Forgive me for interrupting, but I am under command from royal headquarters. Peter, the king of chauffeurs, sends in word that the car is in an amiable mood and champing to be off. So seldom is it in good humor that he—"

"I'll be off at once," exclaimed Barnes, arising. "By Jove, it is half-past ten. I had no idea—good night, Miss Cameron."

He pressed her hand reassuringly and left her.

She had arisen and was standing, straight and slim by the corner of the fireplace, a confident smile on her lips. "If you are to be long in the neighborhood, Mr. Barnes," said his hostess, "you must let us have you again."

"My stay is short, I fear. You have only to reveal the faintest sign that I may come, however, and I'll hop into my seven-league boots before you can utter Jack Robinson's Christian name. Good night, Mrs. Van Dyke. I have you all to thank for a most delightful evening."

The car was waiting at the back of the house. O'Dowd walked out with Barnes, their arms linked—as on a former occasion, Barnes recalled.

"I'll ride out to the gate with you," said the Irishman. "It's a winding, devious route the road takes through the trees."

They came in time, after many "hair pins" and right angles, to the gate opening upon the highway. Peter got down from the seat to release the padlocked chain and throw open the gate.

O'Dowd leaned closer to Barnes and lowered his voice.

"See here, Barnes, I'm no fool, and for that reason I've not said enough to know that you're not either. I don't know what's in your mind, nor what you're trying to get into it if it isn't already there. But I'll say this to you, man to man: Don't let your imagination get the better of your common sense. That's all. Take the tip from me."

He was not imagining anything. O'Dowd said Barnes quietly. "What do you mean?"

"I mean just what I say. I'm giving you a tip for selfish reasons. If you make a bully fool of yourself, I'll have to see you through the worst of it—and it's a job I don't relish. Ponder that, will you, on the way home?"

Barnes did ponder it on the way home. The car was not on the corner when he got out of the car. It was O'Dowd's way of letting him know that he could be depended upon for support if the worst came to pass.

O'Dowd evidently had not been deceived by the acting that masked the conversation on the couch. He knew that Miss Cameron had appealed to him, and that the latter had promised to do everything in his power to help her.

Suspecting that this was the situation, and doubtless sacrificing his own private interests, he had uttered the vague but timely warning to Barnes. The significance of this warning grew under reflection. Barnes was not a fool. He appreciated the position in which O'Dowd voluntarily placed himself. A word or a sign from him would be sufficient to bring disaster upon the Irishman, who had risked his own safety in a few irreverent words. The more he thought of it, the more fully convinced was he that there was nothing to fear from O'Dowd.

Never drove slowly, carefully over the road down the mountain. Responding to a sudden impulse, Barnes lowered one of the side seats in the tonneau and moved closer to the driver.

"How long have you been driving for Mr. Curtis?"

"Ever since he came up here, more'n two years ago. Guess I'm going to get the C. B. for long, though. Seems that he's gottin' a new car and wants an expert machanic to take hold of it from the start. I was good enough to fiddle around with this second-hand pile of junk and the one he had last year, but I ain't qualified to handle this here machine he's expectin' so, he says. I guess they've been some indications against me, but the truth was known. This new secretary he's got can't stump me."

"Why don't you see Mr. Curtis and demand—"

"See him?" snorted Peter. "Might as well try to see Napoleon Bonaparte. Didn't you know he was a sick man?"

"Certainly. But he isn't so ill that he can't attend to business, is he?"

"He sure is. Paralyzed, they say."

"What has Mr. Loeb against you, if I may ask?"

"Well, it's like this. I ain't in the habit of 'bein' ordered around' as if I was just nobody at all so when he starts in to fuss me about something a week or so ago, I ups and tells him I'll smash his head if he don't take it back. He takes it back all right, but the first thing I know I get a call-down from Mrs. Collier. Course I couldn't tell her what I told the sheeny, seel' as she's a female, so I took it like a lamb. Then they gets a feller up here to wash the car. My gosh, mister, the durned ole rattle-trap ain't worth a bucket of water all told. So I send word in to Mr. Curtis that if he has to be washed, I'll wash her. Then when I hears about the new car, 'Next day Mrs. Collier sends for me' and I go in. She says she guesses she'll try the new washer on the new machine when it comes, and if I keer to stay on as washer in his place she'll be glad to have me. I says I'd like to have a word with Mr. Curtis, if he don't mind, and she says Mr. Curtis ain't able to see no one. So I guess I'm korn' to be let out."

An idea was taking root in Barnes' brain, but it was too soon to consider it fixed.

MINING MORE DEADLY THAN BATTLEFIELD

Over Thousand a Year Killed in the Coal Workings of Great Britain.

MINER ALWAYS ON JOB

Conditions Under Which Many of Men Live Are Deplorable; Besides They Are the Victims of Profiteers in Food and the Other Necessaries of Life.

LONDON, March 17.—(Correspondence of the Associated Press).—Mining is more deadly than war, declared John Robertson at the government's inquiry into the coal industry of Great Britain. Robertson is chairman of the Scottish Union of Mine Workers.

"The extent of the danger to the miner is no realized even in the mining districts," he said. "There are 1,500,000 persons employed in and about British coal mines. In the ten years from 1907 to 1916 there was a total of 12,100 men killed, or an average each year of 1,210. In the last 20 years the yearly average of accidents was about 150,000, or a total of about 3,250,000. The miner is always on active service; he is always in the trenches."

It was stated that in one mining district there were 2,768 persons living more than five in a single room, 1,237 more than six to a room, 510 more than seven to a room, and 190 more than eight to a room.

"Think of the conditions in these single rooms," the witness continued. "Pit clothes drying in front of the fire in the same room where the family sleep; sickness, accumulation. How can the children have a chance after the woman has spent her day cleaning? The miner's come home from work, and it has all got to be done over again. Do we wonder that the women folk lose heart?"

Arthur Dalfour, an industrial expert, representing the government, said to the witness: "If the conditions are as you say, they must be righted, and a representative of the coal owners said he entirely agreed that something must be done."

Asked by Mr. Dalfour to what he attributed the high cost of living in the mining districts, the witness answered: "Profiteering."

"I think prices are too high," he went on, "because natural wealth is in the hands of individuals, and the worker gets a very small share."

"Are not prices too high," Mr. Dalfour asked, "owing to the restriction of production?"

"No," the witness replied, "the worker, in my opinion, does too much. No one can accuse the worker of underworking. The failure is in the distribution of production, and not in production itself. We have solved the question of production. What we have to solve is the question of distribution."

Church and Loan Wage One Fight On Bolshevism

"Therefore if thine enemy hunger, feed him; if he thirst give him drink; for in so doing thou shalt heap coals of fire on his head. Be not overcome of evil but overcome evil with good."—(Epistle to the Romans, XII; 20-21.)

THE peace and good will of the world are in grave danger. Famine and bolshevism have formed a terrible coalition of destruction.

This coalition of hunger and hatred has only one final purpose. The annihilation of liberty as we know it. Bolshevism is the wicked brain that directs the plot. Hunger is the horrid instrument of its carrying out.

These things are being called to the attention of clergymen throughout the country in the appeals which are going forth to them to make Sunday, May 4, Victory Loan Sunday.

Europe is threatened with chaos. And if Europe is threatened with chaos, America is threatened, too. Humanity is one.

Every clergyman of whatever faith must keep firmly in mind this fact: Bolshevism aims at the annihilation of religion, the destruction of faith in everything supernatural, the suppression of worship as a social rite, and the overthrow of place of God and reason in place of God and reason. Every leader of bolshevism is a false hunter—most of them are avowed haters of God—all of them desire the overthrow and demolition of all churches, creeds and faiths.

Hunger is the one misery which can be depended on to lead bombs and flag treadmills into the hands of popular ignorance and discontent. Hunger is the thing which bolshevism depends on to make the chaotic masses "curse God" and revile the saving truths of the spirit. Famine and bodily exhaustion speedily make the minds of men receptive to the poison of atheism and unfaith.

The Victory Liberty Loan is the paramount instrumentality at this time for the preservation of American principles, human liberties, the sanctities of religion, and the worship of Almighty God.

With these facts in mind the United States Treasury Department has thought it particularly urgent that the help of every clergyman be enlisted for the Fifth Loan Drive which begins April 21—that the loan be linked into the church services on Victory Loan Sunday, May 4.

Close Relations.

The fellow who plays poker should take this fact to heart: His "ante" and his "bet" will not be far apart.

Scorn.

"What were you doing in the library?" asked Mrs. Curox.

"Reading the old poets," replied her husband.

"What's the matter? Aren't we able to read the brand-new ones?"

NEWS OF INTEREST FROM PECHIN AND NEARBY TERRITORY

Miss Hannah Cole Guest of Honor at Party Arranged by Parents;
Fruit Still Undamaged.

PECHIN, April 11.—A delightful birthday surprise party was given by Mr. and Mrs. Louellies L. Cole last Saturday night at their home at Keffers, in honor of their daughter, Hannah's 15th anniversary. Guests from Connellsville, Danbar and surrounding country were present, and a very enjoyable evening was spent. Music and dancing made the time pass swiftly. At 11 o'clock the guests were served with a dainty lunch. Miss Hannah was handsomely remembered by many of her friends with beautiful gifts.

Charles Cole and sisters, Sadie and Emma Jane, of Connellsville, Pa., were visiting their grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cole of Keffers over Sunday.

William McGregor has moved his family from Yagerstown, near Percy, to Ferguson into one of the houses of Mrs. Mary Blacka.

The peach trees are in full bloom and give promises of an abundant crop. So far the fruit is intact, the late cold spell and frosts not having done any harm.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Colbert of Dawson were visiting the latter's mother, Mrs. Mollie Bricker of Pechin Sunday. Mrs. Colbert was formerly Miss Esther Bricker, one of the popular Pechin girls.

Mrs. R. J. McGee has returned home from a several days' visit with friends in Pittsburg and vicinity. She went to visit her daughter-in-law, Mrs. R. C. McGee who is at Mercy hospital, where she recently underwent an operation from which she is recovering nicely. Mrs. R. C. McGee was formerly Miss Agnes Jamieson of South Connellsville. While in the city Mrs. R. J. McGee visited a number of former friends, among them Rev. and Mrs. D. M. Paul of Tarentum and also friends in Canonsburg. She reports having had a very enjoyable time.

George Martin is improving his Seaton Hill property and has the work all done but the painting.

EXAMINATIONS FOR MINE JOBS COME TO CLOSE

Board Preparing Questions For the Tests Will Now Formulate Answers.

EXAMINERS GRADE PAPERS

Eighty Per Cent Required for Certificate as Mine Foreman, 70 Per Cent for Assistant; 65 for Fire Boss;
Class is Examined at Greensburg.

With the final list of five boss questions submitted to the candidates at the parochial school hall yesterday afternoon, the examinations for mine foremen and fire bosses held during the week came to an end.

The board of six in Pittsburgh, which prepared the questions, will now get together and draw up the correct answers to them. This board usually meets on the first Tuesday following the examinations. These answers will then be forwarded to the local examining board and the papers of the candidates will be corrected. For a fire boss certificate a candidate has to make a percentage of 85.

For assistant mine foreman he must make a percentage of 70 of the first two days and a percentage of 70 on the third day. To become second grade mine foreman a candidate must make 80 per cent on the first two days and for a first grade certificate a candidate must make 80 per cent of the first two days and 80 per cent on the third.

In addition to these averages successful candidates must take an oral examination to demonstrate the satisfaction of the board that they understand gases.

The questions given in the fire boss examinations yesterday afternoon follow:

Name the explosive and nonexplosive gases found in bituminous coal mines. State how they affect life and combustion.

What observations would you make relative to the timbering of working places?

A man's arm has been dislocated at the shoulder, what first aid would you render him?

What observations would you make on your second examination, in regard to explosives and blasting in working places?

What are the legal duties of a fire boss? State fully.

What observations would you make concerning coal dust in working places?

How would you proceed to examine a district of a mine to ascertain whether or not it was free from gas and other dangerous explosives?
